Eisenhower Program New Dealish, Democrats Say

GOP Applauds Proposals By President

Johnson, Rayburn Promise Requests Will Be Considered

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats in Congress greeted President Eisenhower's 1955 legislative program today as a chip off the old New Deal. Southern conservatives immediately asked how much would it cost.

This was the common theme of the majority party's reaction to Mr. Eisenhower's State of the Union message Thursday.

Members of the Republican minority applauded with varying degrees of politeness and enthusiasm, although some of the GOP conservative privately belittled several of the President's domestic proposals. Whether the Eisenhower administration had embraced Democratic programs or developed its own, the outlook appeared good for getting a congressional blessing on a substantial part of the President's requests.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) and House Speaker Sam Rayburn indicated approval of some of the program and promised careful consideration of the requests.

Predicts Bipartisan Aid

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Cal.) predicted that "a large part" of the administration's domestic program would be enacted with the support of both Republicans and Democrats. Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.), one of the most influential of the conservative southerners, called Mr. Eisenhower's message "constructive" but added:

"It appears that there are quite a few heavy expenditure functions being proposed in addition to increased expenditures for existing functions. I think Congress should carefully scrutinize all of these proposals for new expenditures." Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said he could agree with much of Mr. Eisenhower's program but that he was "impressed with the overall similarity" of the message to those of Democratic Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

"It was a good Roosevelt-Truman speech," Rep. James W. Trimble (D-Ark.) commented.

Concerned About Cost Russell and Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss.) both suggested Mr. Eisenhower's proposals would cost more money at a time when the federal budget is still in the red.

Some of the northern Democrats were more enthusiastic about Mr. Eisenhower's domestic ideas. They, too, asserted that he had borrowed much from the Roosevelt-Truman program.

Name Three to Carrier Mills Sanitary District

Appointment of three commissioners of the Carrier Mills sanitary district have been made by County Judge Trafton Dennis.

The commissioners appointed by Judge Dennis are Freeman Dale Pankey, Fred Bailey and James E. Reid and it will be their duty to govern, control and manage the affairs and business of said district.

The three will meet soon to organize and determine the length of their terms of office.

Some time ago Carrier Mills officials were authorized to call an election to vote on the establishing of a sanitary district, which would include the appointment of three commissioners to govern the affairs of the district.

On Dec. 14 the election was held and the district approved by a vote of 265 for to 235 against.

The commissioners are expected to study the possibility of a sanitary sewerage system for Carrier Mills and if they determine such a system desirable an election will be called to vote on the installation of a system and a bond issue to finance the construction.

11 Persons Killed in Plane Crashes in U. S. And Canada; More Abroad

By United Press

At least 11 persons were killed in plane crashes in the United States and Canada Thursday and today.

Eleven persons were reported missing on plane flights in three separate areas.

More deaths occurred in air crashes abroad. Two American jets collided over Tokyo. The pilot's body was recovered but two airmen were missing.

Another U. S. jet plane, abandoned when it burst into flame, killed a Japanese boy in Tokyo when it fell, but the pilot parachuted safely.

Searches were under way in California, Arizona and the Gulf of Mexico for the missing persons. Four members of an architectural firm who took off Thursday in a private plane were sought in Arizona.

The Air Force summoned rescue units from three bases in the search for three men in a T33 Air Force trainer which had scheduled a landing at George Air Force Base, Calif.

The Gulf of Mexico was crisscrossed by planes searching for

Eisenhower to Present New School Aid Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower may surprise Congress next month with a brand new plan for helping states meet the urgent need for new schools, informed sources said today.

The plan minimizes the outright appropriation of federal money, but as in other state aid programs advanced by the President, will propose the use of government guaranteed loans.

Mr. Eisenhower, in one of the few surprise features of his State of the Union message, said Thursday he will send a special message to the Capitol on Feb. 15 recommending "positive, affirmative action" to deal with an estimated shortage of 370,000 high school and grade school classrooms.

This was a well received portion of the message. Two Democratic senators, Earle C. Clements (Ky.), the Democratic assistant floor leader, and Lister Hill (Ala.), chairman of the Labor and Education committee, introduced bills to provide federal aid for school construction. Similar bills had been introduced Wednesday in the House.

Hill's aid bill quickly won the support of 22 other sponsors. It would authorize a two-year emergency program to provide 500 million annually on a matching basis to help the state build elementary and high schools. Hill said he would also reintroduce legislation to earmark revenues for the so-called Title funds for aid to education.

It was learned, however, that officials from the Office of Education have been briefing congressional leaders on plans to keep the government grants for aid to education to a minimum and thus preserve state control of educational facilities. State control is one of the requirements which Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, secretary of health, education, and welfare, has laid down for any aid to education program.

Wrong Mustache, But The Name Is Bigger, Officer Lane Learns

State Policeman Roy A. Lane, at the Mitchell Shell service station at Routes 13 and 45 yesterday afternoon, saw a car drive up in which one of the three faces looked quite familiar.

The familiar looking man, with an odd mustache, got out of his car and Lane saw a strong resemblance to a Marine Air Corps colonel under whom he stood inspection a number of years ago when Lane was in the Navy.

"Sir, were you ever in the Marine Air Corps?" asked Lane.

"No, I wasn't, but I've done some flying for the Army," the man with the mustache replied.

Then the stranger offered his hand and introduced himself. "I'm Roscoe Turner," he said. It was Col. Roscoe Turner, a pioneer flier who has one of the best known names in world aviation. He and two companions, headed northward, had been to Stuttgart, Ark., they said.

four airmen missing in the collision of two Air Force bombers. The crash of a twin-engine Saskatchewan Government Airways plane near Buffalo Narrows, Sask., Thursday took the heaviest toll, killing seven passengers and the pilot.

The plane was coming in for a landing at Buffalo Narrows, 85 miles northwest of Prince Albert, when it plowed into the earth several hundred feet from the runway.

Three airmen were killed near Braman, Okla., when an Air Force B47 Stratojet from a Wichita, Kan., training base made a directly vertical plunge to the earth from a high altitude Thursday.

Near Alton, Calif., Capt. John S. Thompson parachuted to safety when his Mustang fighter developed trouble. The plane crashed and burned.

A giant armada of planes and ships continued searching the Gulf of Mexico for four airmen missing since Wednesday in a collision of two B47 Stratojet bombers near Lake Charles, La. The pilot of one of the planes, who managed to land his crippled craft safely, said the other plane apparently struck him from above, leaving tire marks on the cabin.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Rep. Clifford Davis (D-Tenn.) were on their way to Memphis, Tenn., from Washington to attend the dedication of a new industrial plant when the private plane they were passengers in developed generator trouble. They were forced to return to the capital.

Senate Group Divided on Market Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of the Senate Banking committee were divided today on a proposal to investigate the stock market boom. One key Democrat strongly opposed it.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va.), ranking majority member of the committee, said he doesn't think such a congressional probe is necessary. He said he trusts the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board to take appropriate action if the stock market shows signs of a serious crash.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), incoming chairman of the Banking committee, Thursday proposed an investigation to determine whether the booming stock market threatens to upset the stability of the national economy.

Despite Robertson's opposition, indications were that a majority of the committee would go along with Fulbright on the investigation if he insists. Fulbright was supported by at least three other committee members—Sens. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), outgoing chairman, John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.) and Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.).

Only One Absent When 8th Grade Classes Resumed

Only one pupil, a boy, was absent when the eighth grade of the Harrisburg Junior high school resumed classes Thursday following the extended holiday caused by the destruction by fire of the school building on New Year's morning.

Mr. Darnell's homeroom had a one hundred percent attendance during the month of December, it is reported.

Other information from the school today reveals that possibly only two and at the most only three, band instruments were lost as a result of the fire. The instruments belonging to the school, not the students.

Also it is thought that only two pupils lost gymnasium clothing as a result of the fire as all pupils had been instructed to clear their lockers and take their property home before the holidays. However, it is said that two pupils left their gym clothing in their desks in the study hall of the school building.

One section of the eighth grade is holding classes in the First Christian church, where there are no water fountains and to help relieve the situation the Harrisburg Dairy is supplying paper cups free to the pupils. It is also reported that the Harrisburg Dairy has stored cafeteria supplies that need refrigeration in its milk room. There was no refrigeration at the school when the power lines were cut during the fire.

Mother of Dr. Sheppard Kills Herself

Leaves Suicide Note, Contents Are Not Disclosed

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Richard A. Sheppard Sr., the mother of convicted wife-slayer Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard now in jail for the July 4 murder of his wife, was found dead today in the home of another of her sons.

Police said she committed suicide by shooting herself. They said she left a suicide note whose contents were not disclosed.

She was found at the home of Dr. Stephen A. Sheppard, Dr. Sam's brother.

The suicide note was in possession of the Rocky River police department. Although contents of the note were not released, it was reported she said: "I can't take it any more."

The home where she took her life is located in Rocky River, a Cleveland suburb adjacent to Bay Village, where on July 4 Dr. Sam bludgeoned his wife to death.

Mrs. Sheppard suffered a stroke last fall, and had been hospitalized periodically since that time. Because of her condition, she never attended any sessions of the 10-week trial of her son, who was convicted Dec. 21 of second-degree murder for the slaying.

Mrs. Sheppard's only appearance in connection with the case occurred July 23, where she testified at a coroner's inquest into the death. At that inquest she said she did not believe her son committed the crime, but she said she knew Dr. Sam and his pregnant wife, Marilyn, had on occasions discussed divorce.

ATTORNEYS WITHDRAW CLAIMS FOR NEW TRIAL EVIDENCE

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Attorneys for convicted wife-killer Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard today withdrew their claim that "newly-discovered evidence" entitled the 31-year-old osteopath to a new trial.

The action cancelled a hearing scheduled for Saturday morning before Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin, and paved the way for Dr. Sheppard to be sent to Ohio Penitentiary to start serving a life sentence for the July 4 bludgeoning murder of his pregnant wife Marilyn, 31.

Defense lawyer William J. Corrigan, in withdrawing the request for a new trial, at the same time filed notice of appeal of the second-degree murder conviction with the Court of Appeals. He said he would make request to release the young brain surgeon on bail while he awaited the Appeals Court verdict.

The withdrawal of the claim of "newly-discovered evidence" was the final move by the defense in an effort to obtain a reversal or a new trial from Judge Blythin, who presided over the 10-week trial that ended with Dr. Sheppard's conviction. Tuesday Judge Blythin turned down another defense motion for a new trial, based on 41 alleged judicial errors.

Dr. Sheppard has remained in Cuyahoga County Jail pending disposition of the appeals by Judge Blythin.

Resume Heat At Junior High

Heat service was resumed at the Junior high school new addition today, as the first step in reoccupancy of the building by students following destruction of the old building and damage to the new in the fire New Year's morning.

School offices had been established in the building, with some heat furnished by auxiliary electric heaters, and workers required to wear heavy clothing.

Re-establishment of heat was achieved by utmost co-operation of various workers. Art Bottomley, school board member, was assigned the supervision of the work. The Riley Construction company used a drag line clam bucket to remove burning coal and refuse from the furnace. Jim Byrd of LeTempt plumbing began work on the furnace, using temporary controls. Ford Electric re-established electrical connections and Bob Mitchell's crew placed a temporary cover over the furnace.

The furnace, although stoker-fired, must be watched, as there are no controls from the building. A head of steam will be carried sufficient to heat the building, and there are pressure-type safety cut-offs on the furnace.

Begin Razing CIPS Muddy Power Station

Dismantling Job Underway by American Wrecking Company

In a matter of a little more than a couple of months the Muddy power station, a landmark with its two huge 225-foot concrete smokestacks, will be flattened to ground level.

On June 1 of last year the Central Illinois Public Service Co. demoted the power station to a substation, with all the employees moving on except one, and the crowning blow which will push all physical evidence out of existence has begun.

Doing the dismantling and razing job is the American Wrecking Co. of Des Moines, Iowa, Omaha, Neb., and Kansas City, Mo. Superintendent of the Muddy job is W. O. Beatty, who said he has 20 men working.

The four big turbines, other equipment and the big boilers will be taken out and junked. The machinery is obsolete, Mr. Beatty explained.

The big building will be razed with net of the brick to be pushed off into the basement so that the ground can be levelled off.

To Remove Sprayers Mr. Beatty pointed to cracks in the wall and commented that the building has been settling and is not in good condition.

To be left on the grounds will be the substation, a small office building, and the switchman's home, recently built. Switchman is Jack Brown. The sprayers out of the spray pond will be taken out by the wrecking company.

Mr. Beatty said that the work would take about 10 weeks. The American Co. is recognized as one of the largest wrecking companies in the Midwest. The company has completed wrecking jobs for the Union Pacific railroad, Armour, Cudahy and Wilson packing companies, Drake, Iowa and Nebraska universities, the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and for a large number of stores and construction companies.

Meanwhile, preparations are being made for the big 138,000-volt power line that will run from the CIPS power station at Grand Tower to Muddy. Right-of-way clearing is now being done by White Bros. of Marion. Huge power poles and reels of cable for the project are being stored by the CIPS near Harrisburg.

Gunman Robs Tavern Owner Near Du Quoin

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—A lone gunman robbed a tavern owner of $150 at closing time Thursday night, state police said today. Bill Lindner, proprietor of the White House 10 miles west of here on Ill. 13, told police the man entered the tavern about 12:45 a. m., ordered a drink and played the juke box before pulling a gun on Lindner.

Discuss Status Of Americans Jailed as Spies

Indicate Both Sides Get Down to Cases in Talks

PEIPING (AP)—United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and Premier Chou En-Lai conferred today on the early morning hours today on the fate of 11 American airmen jailed as "spies."

It was apparent both sides were getting down to cases with no beating about the bush.

Their second meeting in less than 24 hours lasted for 3 1/2 hours and they scheduled another for 3 p. m.

The presence of two international law experts at the overnight meeting suggested the talks straightaway got to grips with the main point of contention between the two sides regarding the status of the Americans who were convicted by a Chinese military court.

Expound Legal Aspects The two experts were Prof. Humphrey Waldo of Great Britain, who accompanied Hammarskjöld on his mission, and Prof. Chou Keng Sheng, adviser to the Chinese Foreign Ministry and a well-known professor of international law.

It is also apparent that much of the talking so far has been done by Hammarskjöld. The two international law experts are believed to have taken part of the time to expound the legal aspects of the problem from their two viewpoints.

The United States contention that the accused men were in military uniform and therefore under international law could not be held for spying, and that China had committed a breach of the Korean armistice agreement by imprisoning American armed forces personnel on duty, has been contested by the Chinese.

Accuse Yanks of Spying The Chinese insist that the case is purely an internal matter and that it had been clearly established that the accused were engaged in spying activities on Chinese territory when they were seized.

Chinese circles say that the names of the imprisoned Americans were included by the American government in the list of American nationals in China to be exchanged for Chinese nationals in the United States during the negotiations at Geneva seven months ago.

This, according to these circles, proves that at that time the American government did not consider the accused as prisoners of war.

Williamson History Discussed at Historical Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Saline County Historical society was held Tuesday, Jan. 4, in the Mitchell-Carnegie library. The president, Louis Aaron, presided over the business session.

A memorial to the late Fred H. Wasson was conducted by William H. Farley, who recalled glimpses of Mr. Wasson as he played his different roles in church, clubs, community, social service, business and Ozark tour activities. He was always "a man who put into practice the things he learned—a man who worked for an ideal and not for what he could get out of it."

Paul A. Frick, feature editor of the Marion Daily Republican, was the evening's speaker. He related the history of Williamson county, beginning with the days when the Shawnee Indians under Chief Tecumseh and the Kaskaskia Indians under Chief Ducoigne fought there. He said the county was named for William Benson, who gave the county the whole area where the present square is in Marion. The town of Marion received its name from General Marion of Revolutionary War fame.

The social committee used as a theme, "grandma's table." The centerpiece was an antique wood bread trencher, made from a log. This was filled with homemade bread. The committee was composed of Mrs. James Bond, Mrs. Ray Durham, Mrs. E. E. Ledford and Miss Alvina Shestak.

Behind the Camouflage

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
How important the arming of West Germany is to the Western defenses in Europe can be gauged from the noise of threats emanating from the Soviet Union since the French and Germans began debating the Paris pacts.

Those agreements, of course, would bring West Germany into NATO and authorize the re-establishment of German armed forces. They would give NATO sufficient ground strength to diminish sharply the prospects for the success of any surprise land invasion by Russian armies.

The Kremlin thoroughly understands this. It is one of many reasons why the Russians have been offering the free world soft talk for the past year and a half. They have been trying to put the West to sleep.

The policy seemed to be paying off handsomely when EDC collapsed. But upon its crumbling structure rose the Paris agreements, with strong hopes that after some difficult hurdles are cleared, both France and Germany will ratify.

So now the Soviet leaders have dropped their sweet words and are shouting tough language. Foreign Minister Molotov says the march of communism will go on, and will never be stopped.

Furthermore, he warns that if the West Germans are armed then all hope of uniting East and West Germany is dead. And, of course, the Soviet Union has seemed to back up this threat by planning the "conversion" of the East German police force into a mechanized army.

The latest in the series of threats came when the Soviet government threatened to abrogate its 1944 friendship treaty with France if France ratifies the London-Paris agreements for rearming Western Germany.

All this is quite revealing as to the true nature of our "peace-loving" friends in Moscow. Even the Bevanites in England must be slightly taken aback. But the threats, like the soft talk that went before, contain large elements of phoniness.

Molotov implies that if the West Germans do not arm there is strong likelihood of German unity. The truth is that Russia's always have been almost totally unacceptable to the West. They would merely insure that Germany would be either a helpless neutral or another satellite of the Soviet Union.

Certainly the Paris pacts are founded on the assumption that a divided Germany will exist for some time. But that is not the West's fault. These agreements simply recognize a situation that was of Moscow's making, and is not likely to be undone while present world tensions continue.

As for the "conversion" of the East German police, the fact is that they are an army now. Russia might indeed decide to beef them up if the Paris agreements take effect, but that would represent no basic change.

The Bear has laid down the olive branch, which it always held rather clumsily, and is growling. To responsible free men who have never lost sight of his constant purpose of global conquest, his new aspect should prove neither surprising nor frightening. They could always see behind the camouflage.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Deputy Attorney General Bollixes Up Ike's Plans For Judgeship For Sen. Hendrickson; Sen. Green Has 13 Months To Go To Set New Record; Lyle Snader Cracks Whip Over Lagging Delegations.

WASHINGTON. — Inside story can now be told of how young Deputy Attorney General Bill Rogers actually overruled the President of the United States in appointing a federal judge.

President Eisenhower had promised to appoint outgoing Sen. Bob Hendrickson, New Jersey Republican, to the U. S. Court of Appeals as his consolation prize for stepping aside and letting Clifford Case run for the Senate. In fact, Ike had given his personal word on this to Hendrickson's colleague, Sen. Alex Smith, also of New Jersey.

But at the same time, young Rogers had also made a commitment—namely, to wangle a federal judgeship for Joseph McGarraghy on the D. C. District Court. As long-time GOP boss of the voteless District of Columbia, McGarraghy was too much of a politico to risk appointing him to the higher Court of Appeals.

However, a vacancy existed on the Court of Appeals, not the District Court. To get around this difficulty, Rogers deftly managed to promote District Judge Walter Bastian to the Appeals Court and thus create an opening for McGarraghy down below on the District Court.

All this was pulled off smoothly without notifying the President, who is supposed to appoint federal judges. And by the time Ike heard about it, Bastian's appointment had already been sent to the Senate for approval.

Meanwhile, Senator Smith of New Jersey had spread word around the Senate that Ike had promised the Appeals vacancy to Senator Hendrickson. So when Bastian's name came to the Senate instead, it made Smith look like a fool. He telephoned the White House in a rage and accused the President of a "breach of faith." Senate GOP Leader Bill Knowland of California joined in the protest.

Ike decided, however, it would be too embarrassing to withdraw Bastian's appointment after it had already been announced. So he tried to mollify the senators by offering Hendrickson the ambassadorship to New Zealand.

By this time Hendrickson was really sore. He had agreed not to run for re-election, had watched Clifford Case win instead, and now the promised judgeship had faded to an ambassadorship "down under." So he pouted and refused to say whether he would accept. After his friend, Amos J. Peaslee of New Jersey, was appointed ambassador to next-door Australia, however, Hendrickson decided he would like to go to New Zealand after all.

But by this time, the State Department had decided Hendrickson didn't want the job and had gone ahead with other arrangements. Today the diplomats are frantically trying to straighten out the mess.

OLDEST SENATOR
The oldest member of the new 84th Congress, 87-year-old Sen. Theodore Francis Green of Rhode Island, plans to set a new record before this session of Congress ends.

If he lives beyond Feb. 26, 1956, he will be the oldest active senator in our history. That record is now held posthumously by former Sen. Justin Smith Morrill of Vermont, who lived to be 88 years, 8 months and 14 days while still in the Senate.

At the rate he's going, Green ought to be a cinch to be the new champ. The latest physical check-up showed him to be in excellent condition, and, having just been elected for his fourth six-year term last November, he has every intention of finishing the term at the age of 92.

"Then I may think about retiring," says Green with a very grin. Meantime, the spy, bachelor senator is kept busy as the chairman of two committees by day and on the capital's social whirl by night. Office aides say he averages two or three social functions a week.

He'll take an occasional drink, but is a nonsmoker. Green doesn't attribute his health to nonuse of tobacco, but to frequent exercise and a vigilant check on his diet. He's in the Senate gymnasium several times a week for a swim, thinks the day is lost when he can't chin himself six or seven times on the athletic bars. He also plays tennis, has flown "around the world more times than I can remember," and long ago won a reputation as Congress' best friend of the Capital Transit Company. Every day he rides to and from the office by streetcar, except when he feels the urge to walk. He's a millionaire, but he almost never takes a taxi.

CERTIFICATION CONFUSION

As the House of Representatives was about to convene young Lyle Snader, outgoing GOP clerk of the House, held his breath. For a time it looked as if the Democrats wouldn't control.

It happens that getting elected to Congress isn't enough to entitle a Congressman to his seat in the House. The secretary of state of the congressman's home territory must also officially "certify" him before he can be seated. And last week two important states had not certified their congressmen as the zero hour approached.

Moreover, they were states — Massachusetts and Missouri — with Democratic contingents. Massachusetts elected seven Democrats and Missouri nine Democrats to the House last November. It might have caused serious consequences if these Democrats, as well as Republicans from the two states, couldn't be seated.

The Democrats have only a majority of 28 seats in the House, counting Massachusetts and Missouri. In addition, such eminent Democrats as Majority Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts and Appropriations Chairman Clarence Cannon of Missouri might have had to "stand aside," not to mention such esteemed Republicans as former Speaker Joseph Martin of Massachusetts and Congressman Dewey Short of Missouri, former chairman of the Armed Services committee.

However, though his own days were numbered as House clerk, Republican Snader was not tempted by the interesting political ramifications.

"Get those states in line," he ordered an assistant, H. Newlin Megill. It required several urgent telegrams to both Massachusetts and Missouri, plus a long-distance telephone call to Missouri. However, Megill finally got their delegations certified for the opening gong.

Jonathan Truman Dorris Receives Honorary Doctor of Letters Degree

The honorary degree of Doctor of Letters was awarded to Jonathan Truman Dorris of Richmond, Ky., at the Illinois College convocation held Friday, Jan. 7, at Jacksonville, commemorating the 125th anniversary of the opening of the first college class in Illinois. That class, consisting of nine members, had its first meeting in January 1830.

Dr. Dorris, one of nine so honored at the convocation, was born in Harrisburg, and received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Illinois college in 1911, his Master of Arts degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1918, and his Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Illinois in 1926 with further graduate work in 1935-36 at the University of Kentucky. He participated in various fields as an undergraduate and continued his diverse activities in later life, both as a scholar and a civic leader.

Former teacher, principal, and superintendent in Illinois high schools and former college teacher in Illinois and North Dakota, he has since 1926 been professor of history and social science at Eastern State college, Richmond, Ky. Dr. Dorris was cited for his "long and sincere interest in education" and for his "making history come alive for others."

He is a past president of the Kentucky Academy of Social Science, and the Pioneer National Monument association. As an historian he has been a member of several public commissions designed to preserve and publicize the memories of the past and has taken a distinguished part in this work. As founder and vice president of the Daniel Boone Bicentennial commission, he was a moving spirit in the celebration staged by the State of Kentucky in 1935. He is a member of the George Rogers Clarke Memorial commission, has written articles for the Mississippi Valley Historical association and Illinois and Kentucky historical journals. He edited the history of Eastern Kentucky State Teachers college.

Dr. Dorris has also collected and preserved documents and manuscripts valuable to an understanding of the history of the area in which he lives. During the past winter he has been building an historical museum on his college campus, where he has spent 25 years collecting rare books and both original and photographic copies of famous documents and manuscripts.

The crowning work of his career was the volume entitled "Pardon and Amnesty under Lincoln and Johnston," an exhaustive study of the legal problems created by the Civil War, which to a degree plague us to this day.

No. 13 in a series of RARE CREATURES:

THE EVASIVE GLOG

is happy go lucky—as long as luck is with him

The GLOG is an advertiser who refuses to be moored to the crass world of facts and figures.

He may spend a million on advertising. But if you ask him why, he talks about golf.

If you ask him what he expects to get out of his ads, he raves about some oomph-girl who has caught the public eye.

You can't pin him down — because he honestly doesn't expect much from advertising.

Fortunately the GLOG is a rare creature.

Wise advertisers expect plenty from their advertising dollar. And they prefer to keep luck out of the picture.

So they don't try to cover the nation with a flimsy catch-all schedule. They pick their best markets — then really cover them.

Naturally they use newspapers. Because newspapers are basic — the foundation of any intelligent ad schedule.

Because only the newspaper reaches just about everybody in every community. Because only the newspaper carries the sense of urgency — "If it's advertised today, I'd better go down and get it quick."

No wonder advertisers invested twice as much money in newspapers last year as in any other medium!

All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

Paratrooper Killed In Barracks Fire

STEWART AIR FORCE BASE, Tenn. (AP)—One Army paratrooper was killed and three others burned, not seriously, today when a fire swept through a two-story frame barracks where 45 men were sleeping.

The dead man was identified as Cpl. Glenn M. Cordery, 19, of Del Monte, Ill.

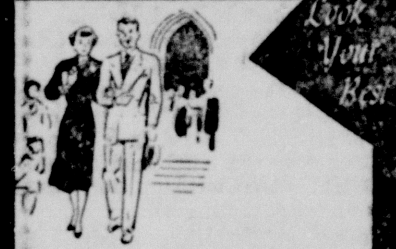

The public information office at Stewart said cause of the fire had not been determined. It enveloped the building within a matter of minutes. Cordery apparently was overcome by smoke while trying to escape.

Harvester Workers Vote To Join UAW

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—A Roman Catholic priests' campaign against an allegedly Communist-dominated union has paid off with a landslide victory at the International Harvester Farmall tractor works.

Harvester employees voted 1,740-760 Thursday to switch allegiance from the independent Farm Equipment Workers Union to the CIO United Auto Workers.

The decision involved 3,124 production and maintenance employees. The collective bargaining election was supervised by the National Labor Relations Board.

Catholic priests throughout the industrial Quad-City area had urged Harvester employees to abandon the FE in sermons Sunday.

FE officials protested the pulpit campaign, but a priest explained: "The issue is very clear—we believe the FE is Communist-dominated."

"We are simply reminding Catholics that they cannot vote for or support in any other way, in good conscience, any organization that is Communist-dominated," he said.

Priests made the pleas in all the parishes of Moline, East Moline, Silvis, Rock Island and Milan, Ill., and in Davenport and Bettendorf, Ia.

A Catholic spokesman said the campaign against FE was "entirely local," even though the parishes are in two different dioceses. An estimated one-third of the Harvester workers in the area are Catholics.

The UAW's victory was its fourth in the Quad-City area over the FE, which was expelled from the CIO on charges of Red domination.

B47 Sets Non-Stop Flight Record

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott said Thursday night a record-breaking flight by B47 stratojet demonstrated that the U. S. Air Force can reach targets anywhere around the world.

The American Air Force, Talbott said, now is "second to none."

The big bomber established a new U. S. military record by remaining aloft for 47 hours and 35 minutes and flying 21,000 miles non-stop.

The Air Force in Washington revealed details of the record flight, made last November by a B47 attached to the Strategic Air Command. The plane was refueled by flying tankers while it shuttled between North Africa and Britain. The longest previous flight by a U. S. jet plane was made last summer by another B47 which stayed aloft 55 hours.

Talbott spoke at a dinner honoring Dr. Clifford C. Furnas as new chancellor of the University of Buffalo.

Far East Policies May Be Aired at Senate Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Senate leaders agreed today that hearings on the Southeast Asia and Formosa defense treaties may lead to a full-scale airing of diplomatic and defense policies in the Far East.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.), who recently called for a review of all U. S. foreign policy, said hearings on the two pacts may develop into a review of Asian policy, at least informally, by the Senate.

Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), who is slated to head the Foreign Relations committee, agreed such a review is "very likely."

George said the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization agreement worked out last year at Manila probably will be considered by the committee first. It is expected to be one of the first major items before the new Senate.

RAISING THE FLAG OF HOPE—Five-year-old Mary Kosloski, the 1955 March of Dimes Poster Girl, raises a flag atop Mt. Baldy, Ida., officially opening the 1955 March of Dimes campaign. Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, and students of Harley, Ida., High School help open the campaign. The banner will remain flying until the campaign ends on Jan. 31. The Idaho area was chosen because there were no polio cases there during 1954.

Democrats Plan To Investigate Military Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats went ahead today with plans to investigate the administration's sharp cutback in military manpower, unopposed by President Eisenhower's detailed defense of his military strategy.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), incoming chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said his group will begin a detailed review within the next few weeks of the administration's revived "new look" strategy.

Civilian and military leaders, including members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will be called before the committee to give the reasons justifying a cutback in the nation's military strength to 2,850,000 by mid-1956. The hearings will be closed at first, Russell said, but opened to the public later.

A similar hearing on the administration's military plans is planned on the House side.

Lions District Deputy To Make Official Visit to Local Club

Omar Hobbs, Lions deputy district governor of District 1-C, will make an official visit to the Harrisburg club at its regular meeting Monday, Jan. 10. The announcement of Hobbs' visit was made by R. C. "Stopper" Adams, president of the Harrisburg Lions.

Adams requests all members of the local club to be present Monday.

Bogart, Roy Rogers Join Police in Real Manhunt

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. — Film tough guy Humphrey Bogart and movie cowboy Roy Rogers played minor roles in a real-life shooting at this plush beach resort in which a mysterious rifleman wounded two persons.

Rogers was reported within about 50 yards of the gunfire Thursday when the gunman, believed by police to be either a maniac or a narcotics addict, sprayed the harbor front with bullets from a .22 caliber rifle.

Bogart and Rogers were at the home of Roger Cunningham, owner of the Club Casa Del Mar of Santa Monica, when the shooting occurred and they joined police in a manhunt along the waterfront.

Ernest Cantu, 27, Corona Del Mar, was shot in the right knee and right arm as he stood on the beach of Bay Island, and Philip Kilmer, 19, Lido Isle, was wounded in the left hip. Both were reported in good condition at Hoag Memorial Hospital. Neither could give a reason for the shooting.

Set Murder Trial For Legal Officer At Army Base

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — The top legal officer of a secret guided missile center will be tried Feb. 28 for murder and rape of a fellow Army officer's Polish war bride.

The trial of Capt. Marcus F. Bluth of Joliet, Ill., judge advocate of the Army's Redstone Arsenal, was announced Thursday after conferences between state and defense attorneys.

Bluth, 40, is accused of murdering and raping Mrs. Helen Theresa Meighen, 32, of Warsaw, Poland, the attractive, platinum-haired wife of Capt. Patrick Meighen, 39, of Waynesburg, Pa.

Police said the woman was slain by beating or drugs, or both, after an outing with Bluth during the Thanksgiving weekend.

The Meighens, married in Berlin in 1948, had become estranged shortly before. Meighen and Bluth first became acquainted as fellow officers at the base a few weeks before the death occurred.

Bluth, who has a wife and child in Los Angeles, is free on $7,500 bond.

A-Weapons Now Standard for Armed Forces

WASHINGTON — Atomic authorities said today that nuclear weapons have become standard equipment for all of the armed services.

That, they said, is the meaning of a brief passage in President Eisenhower's State of the Union message.

For years after the war atomic arms were categorized as "special weapons."

But on Dec. 8, 1953, the President said in a speech to the United Nations that "atomic weapons have virtually achieved conventional status within our armed services."

Thursday, before a joint session of the House and Senate, he spoke

Father, Two Daughters Burn to Death

APOKA, Fla. —Two little girls and their brave father who tried desperately to save them from their blazing home were burned to death near here early today.

The victims were E. M. Thollander, 53-year-old operator of a fruit stand, and his daughters, Connie, 4, and Linda Sue, 3. Their mother, Mrs. Ruth Thollander, and another daughter, 5-year-old Marian, were treated at a hospital for minor cuts and burns.

The couple's two other daughters were visiting friends for the night. Thollander helped his wife and Marian flee the home, then dashed back inside to save the youngest children. His body was found beneath a crumpled wall, near the adjoining cribs which held the charred bodies of the children.

Mrs. Thollander told firemen that a mattress caught fire about 10 o'clock Thursday night, apparently from a lighted cigarette. She said she and her husband rushed the mattress into the yard, extinguished the flames and returned to bed in another room.

But shortly after midnight Mrs. Thollander said, her husband smelled smoke and went into the bedroom from which the mattress was removed. He came back screaming that the "walls are in flames," she said.

The fire quickly swept through the modest home where Thollanders had operated a fruit stand for more than 25 years in this central Florida citrus growing section.

Democrats Call Ike Program 'New Dealish'

ic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) said in discussing the message.

Here is a rundown on the overall outlook:

Foreign Policy: Mr. Eisenhower can bank on substantial bipartisan support of his foreign policy, although still undisclosed foreign aid plans may get economy treatment.

Military: The administration's reserve training plan, to be submitted to Congress later, faces rough going, particularly in the House. But the administration can depend on action to extend the draft law.

Foreign Trade: Prospects are good for congressional approval of Mr. Eisenhower's program for renewal of the reciprocal trade program with authority for further reductions in tariffs.

Agriculture: Most Democrats oppose the administration program for flexible farm price supports, as it was enacted last year.

Labor: The outlook is clouded for legislation to amend the Taft-Hartley law, whether as Mr. Eisenhower recommended or along some other line. There also is uncertainty about the President's proposal to raise the minimum wage from 75 to 90 cents an hour, with broadened coverage. Opposition is expected from the South.

Taxes: Congressional approval is almost assured for Mr. Eisenhower's request for another postponement of corporation and estate tax reductions, now scheduled for April 1.

Federal Aid for School Construction: Strong support exists for some action in this direction, but details of the administration program have not yet been disclosed.

Government Pay Increases and Postal Rate Hikes: Mr. Eisenhower linked these two programs, but Congress probably will approve a higher salary scale and reject the postal rate increases.

Housing: Congress probably will approve Mr. Eisenhower's request for authority to build 70,000 public housing units in the next two years.

THE STORY: Rifles for the Union Army were aboard the General Harty as it prepared to go up the Colorado River with its usual cargo of miners headed for the gold strike. Capt. Irving Crotch instinctively felt that in some way a sinister man named Radcliff Burke is concerned about the cargo too, but in a different way.

Queenie walked directly to her ship after her rebuff from Radcliff Burke. It had been the first time she had seen Burke since those days in Kentucky—since she had married someone else and gone away. That ordeal, the husband she had endured until the bitter end, was an experience she never recalled now.

Perhaps she shouldn't be too hard on Burke. After all, she had sent him along his way of her own free will and choice. All her life she had abhorred secrecy, underhand ways, and when Burke had returned wounded from Bull Run and then enlisted in Dr. Bickley's army, she had been there for him.

His arm fitted securely around her waist, he drew her into a rear room smaller than the front shop. Here a cast-iron stove was still sending out intolerable waves of heat. Queenie had recently completed next morning's stock of baked goods and the smell of fresh bread lay in the room. A broken chair and a bed stood against the bare wall. It was a squalid quarter, a far cry from her father's she took no pride. Copperheads—Knights of the Golden Circle—fantastic organizations sworn to murder Lincoln in his sleep. As soon as Burke recovered from his wound he had taken the Knight's oath in a barn with a live snake hanging above his head. The snake was their emblem—a repellent banner representing a revolting doctrine.

She stepped through her shop's door, laid her back tiredly against the frame. Meeting Burke again had brought its shock, had opened the floodgates on memories of days when she had been 18, a passion hungrily demanding fulfillment. In this way Cal Dreyfus's words struck her, jarring the past. "Did you forget about tonight?"

She lifted her hand, brushed unruly hair away from her damp forehead. "I stepped over to Fran Little's place."

His arm fitted securely around her waist, he drew her into a rear room smaller than the front shop. Here a cast-iron stove was still sending out intolerable waves of heat. It was a squalid quarter, a far cry from her father's climbed-log house in Kentucky. She could never enter without feeling a stab of remorse. Dreyfus was struck by her pallor. "What's the matter? You sick?"

"No. I'll be all right." Her glance lifted, brighter now, and a smile played across her languid mouth. "I'm not what you expect. I'm not what you expect."

An impatient laugh escaped from his throat. "Ever a man take a woman knowin' what she really was inside?"

His words set her heart strumming. A woman could take Dreyfus and be safe. There might not be any breathless ecstasy, but he would never tire of her. She said quietly, "There's no preacher at the landing."

She asked, still not thinking directly of Dreyfus, "Will you always love me?"

"Always."

A sob came faintly from her throat. It brought a low murmur from him. "It's all right, Queenie. Maybe I'm older'n you. But I made a pile in that strike upriver. Ten thousand—maybe 20,000 more before it's pinched out. It's yours, as soon as you marry me. And we're going to stand before the

Order Returns To Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Order returned to the stock market today after four sessions of hectic trading had wiped out 5½ billion dollars of market valuation.

Trading quieted in the late morning after a first hour of activity. Prices gained $1 to $3 a share in the early dealings following a higher opening. Then they fluctuated in a narrow range just under their best levels.

Toward noon the tapers were leisurely recording the sales in marked contrast with recent trading when the tape ran as much as 15 minutes late.

But snarled brokerage records caused by the heaviest stock trading since 1933 may force short sessions for a day or two.

An authoritative Wall Street source said a few of the nation's largest brokerage firms have been "buried beneath a mountain of paper work."

Overworked clerks at these firms have been unable to post the transactions rapidly enough to keep pace with the boiling market, a situation that prevailed in November, 1929, and brought several market holidays and abbreviated sessions.

Purdue-Northwestern Game Standout in Big Ten; Illini Favored to Beat Indiana

CHICAGO — Underrated Purdue, boating the best record in the Big Ten against non-conference cage competition, makes its league debut Saturday against Northwestern in the stand-out clash on a full conference schedule.

Other games on the program will be Indiana at Illinois, Minnesota at Iowa and Ohio State at Michigan in evening spectacles and Wisconsin at Michigan State in the afternoon television production.

Of the five games, only the Purdue-Northwestern meeting at Lafayette matches teams which have not yet been beaten in Big Ten play. Northwestern won its only league start, 74-72, over Minnesota.

Purdue Favored Over Wildcats
The Boilermakers, winners of seven of eight pre-conference games and outscored by one point in their only loss, were rated six-point favorites over the Wildcats, who have won six and lost two.

The two teams have met two common foes, Notre Dame and Butler, and the results against these clubs indicated an even

Big Ten Leads Opposition to NCAA Policy

NEW YORK — The NCAA was expected to vote for national control of television again in 1955 today but there were concrete indications of discord among member schools regarding the exact type of control to be adopted.

Originally, the control proposal was expected to be passed with little or no opposition but in light of Thursday's developments, it was quite likely that the issue might touch off a bitter fight on the convention floor today.

Herbert O. Fritz, Crisler, University of Michigan athletic director, made it clear that the Big Ten was solidly against college football's "Game of the Week" television policy which was in force in 1954. He said the Big Ten "would not be able to participate" in the NCAA's television program if it employs the same or a similar system during 1955.

"We accepted the 1954 program under protest," Crisler said. "Now we feel it's time for a change."

The Big Ten proposes that one home game and one road game be televised within stipulated regions, or that a team appear merely once on a nationally televised program.

Others Back Regional Plan
Shortly after Crisler's speech shook the assembled delegates, Al Masters of Stanford stood up in a round-table discussion and said, "We are definitely in favor of regional television."

If the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conference were to drop out of the program, presumably to be followed by Notre Dame, the NCAA's entire television set-up would be imperiled.

While no television policy actually will be formulated at today's business session, the TV resolution will be offered and voted upon by the delegates. If a resolution is adopted, the NCAA Council will appoint a 1955 Television Committee Saturday and that committee will be empowered to devise a plan of procedure. The plan then will be submitted to the NCAA membership for a vote. A two-thirds vote of the members is needed to make any plan operative.

Junior High Splits Games at Norris City

The Harrisburg Junior high school basketball team travelled to Norris City Thursday night and split a pair of games. The local seventh grade team won but the eighth graders lost by a 56-35 score.

The loss gave the eighth grade team an even split with Norris City for the season as Harrisburg won a previous contest, played here, 53-46.

Coach Louie Beltz started Henshaw, Pickford, Drue, Rauh and Walker in the eighth grade game and also played Biggs, Pavelonis, Ford, Karnes, Abney, Cain and Thompson.

Thompsonville Beats Woodlawn

Thompsonville captured its second game of the week and the new year last night by edging visiting Woodlawn, 61-57. The Woodlawn cagers had defeated Thompsonville earlier in the season by 13 points.

Bob Munday's cagers led 17-12 at the quarter and 37-26 at the half. Invading Woodlawn rallied in the third to outscore their host, 19-12, and continued to narrow the gap in the fourth. At one time in the final canto, Woodlawn moved within a point of the Tigers.

The Mundaymen were deadly from the field, hitting 27 of 52 for a .52 per cent shooting average, but were cold at the free throw line, making only 7 of 19. Woodlawn caged 23 of 59 from the field for a 39 per cent average.

THOMPSONVILLE — Carlile 0, Doss 9, Lemmon 20, Hodgson 14, Gregory 12, Marsh 6, WOODLAWN — Owen 1, Wilson 11, Burns 17, Burnes 24, Mefford 2, Sides 2.

The victory gave Thompsonville sole possession of fourth place in the Little Egyptian conference standings with a 3-3 record.

Cardinals Mail Out Contracts

ST. LOUIS — Contracts for 1955 have been mailed to all St. Louis Cardinal players living outside the St. Louis area.

Redbird Vice President Bill Walsingham announced Thursday that the contracts called for pay cuts in some cases, increases in others. He refused to say which players would be asked to take cuts.

Cardinal players who live in the area are expected to come to the office later to discuss salary. These include Stan Musial, six-time National League batting champion, who is top man on the payroll at a reported $80,000.

Rookie pitcher Brooks Lawrence, who was given a raise for his 15-6 record last year, is the only Cardinal under contract so far.

Evanston High School Senior Sets New Swimming Record

CHICAGO — High school senior Richard Hanley set a national interscholastic swimming record for the 100-yard free style Thursday with a time of :51.2.

Hanley, a 170-pounder from Evanston Township high school, snapped the record in a dual meet at suburban Oak Park high school.

His time bettered the :51.5 record set in 1950 by Ron Gora of Chicago's Lane Tech.

Hanley's coach, W. D. Burton, described him as "the best free style I've ever had—definitely a potential Olympic champion."

Hanley's uncle, Dick Hanley, coached the Northwestern football team from 1927 to 1934 and later coached the professional Chicago Rockets.

North Squad is Underdog in Senior Bowl Game Tomorrow

MOBILE, Ala. — A capacity crowd of 36,000, plus a nationwide television audience, was expected to view the sixth annual Senior Bowl game here Saturday between a hand-picked team of football seniors from the South and a similar group from the North.

Although the Northerners are three-point underdogs, Coach Paul Brown, who recently guided the Cleveland Browns to a pro title, is hopeful that his team, led by Alan Ameche, Wisconsin's All-American, could make the Southern charges give ground. Brown's predictions have been gloomy, however.

Brown stressed wide sweeps and cutbacks outside the ends in Thursday's drills while in the South camp here, Coach Steve Owen, former New York Giants mentor, emphasized the "quickie" plays with his halfbacks showing fine form in scooting through the line. Trainers of both teams declared them to be in first class physical condition.

Millions of Orthodox Christians Celebrate Christmas Behind Iron Curtain

LONDON (AP)—Millions of the world's Christians on both sides of the Iron Curtain celebrated Christmas today.

Members of the Eastern Orthodox Church, mostly in the Middle East, the Balkans and Asia, marked the birth of Christ today because they follow a calendar 13 days behind that used in the West.

At Jerusalem, hundreds of Christian Arabs crossed from Israel to Jordan to pay homage at Bethlehem's shrines. Jordanian authorities turned back a few, including a group of Russians, but gave no reason.

In Moscow where midnight Mass was said at Yelokhovskaya Cathedral the crowds overflowed the ancient church and United Press Correspondent Kenneth Brodney cabled that the ceremony "made it seem that 36 years of revolution and Communism never existed."

In Belgrade, Yugoslavs of the Orthodox faith scattered sparks of good luck from flaming oak branches throughout their homes—a custom as dear to the East as is the Christmas tree in the West.

Alexei, white-bearded patriarch of Russian Orthodox Christians, celebrated the midnight Mass at Yelokhovskaya Cathedral, largest of the Moscow churches still functioning.

He was resplendent in a golden dome-shaped crown and robes of gold as he led the worship with many Western diplomats in attendance. They included U. S. Ambassador and Mrs. Charles E. Bohlen, Louis Joxe of France, Rolf Sohlman of Sweden, John Watkins of Canada and Norbert Bischoff of Austria.

There was no hint of the Communists' anti-religious campaign in the solemn services. Deep Russian basses in the congregation joined the sopranos of the choir and women wearing black kerchiefs on their heads tended votive candles under the ancient icons.

Ousted College Doctor Sells Home; To Go South

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Dr. Charles A. Laughead, whose end-of-the-world predictions failed to materialize, has sold his East Lansing home and plans to "go South for a rest."

The 44-year-old former Michigan State College staff physician said the world "has a good many million years to go yet," but insisted he still is in contact with "the outer-space boys."

A recent attempt by Laughead's sister to have the doctor sent to a mental hospital failed when two psychiatrists declared the doom forecaster was sane.

Laughead was dismissed from his $10,000-a-year job because college officials said his forecasts of doom and reports of communication with spacemen in flying saucers were "disturbing students."

"My wife and I are going South, possibly to Miami, where we will lie in the sun and try to find ourselves again," Laughead said.

Just One Confusion After the Other Here

DuBOIS (Bois), Ill. (AP)—The date-line is not a mistake because this little southern Illinois town is known by both names.

The historical, geographical and state - highway - department - sign name of the town is DuBois. The Illinois Central Railroad depot carries the name Bois because 10 miles down the track is Du Quoin, and passengers and baggagemen kept getting confused.

Now motorists who see DuBois on the highway sign and Bois on the depot are confused.
